It must have been obvious to any one taking moderate pains to consider the matter that the whole of the correspondence was charactersense of a well informed public out in China might be relied upon to separate the wheat from the chaff, there was the greatest danger that people at home would be misled by the statements, and that not only would grievous wrong be thus inflicted upon the reputation of the Missionaries, but the course of justice be signally impeded. In the resums of the news, which appeared in yesterday's paper, it was felt to be abso- God Save the Queen ....... lutely necessary to omit almost all that was said by the correspondent in question, which was not confirmed from other and more reliable sources. Some portions not only of the views expressed, but of the statements of what purport to be facts are se glaringly in opposition to the truth, that it would be only French Missionaries and others at that port. spreading error to allude to them in any other way than in order to expose their falsity. The statement that the French Consul and Mons. Smon fired revolvers at the Taoutai and the Che-Haien, which is given without even a question as to its authenticity. bears on the surface of it every evidence of falsehood. It is the last thing that either of the lamented gentlemen could possibly be supposed likely to do, and it is precisely-the charge which a Chinaman was most likely to prefer. It is also strange tres regrettable que vous avez commise that, if two Frenchmen fired at persons within a few paces of them, three shots should have missed; while the fact that CHUN How sent in a body declaring it to be that of the French Consul, which he had kept by him fernit co qu'elle pourrait pour pour protèger, over since the incident, while the fact was male quarant tout nous devices some defendre the body of the Consul was found by others in the River, is, combined with the other considerations above noticed sufficient to disprove once for all the disgracoful calumny which is hurled of the repulation of the late who are roundly accused of kidnspping Chinese children, "paying their employes ao much a head for the work," and of being

There are scores of men connected with the last lobby who ought to be able to make out tolerably correct lists. But suppose the figures given above are not impeached? Then we can readily understand what a very expensive concern the lobby must be, and how little a matter of $20,000 would do towards potting through an important bill. We can understand why 10 per cent, of the amount tax, must be retained. Putting all the items together, it appears that it cost over a quarter of a million of dollars to keep the lobby of last winter in good working order; and after all

This region is crossed by parullel granite ridges running generally north or north-west, and rarely more than sixty miles long and ten to thirty miles apart. Out of the great tableland of which most of the country consists riso the many outlying sterras of the Rocky range, like islands from the sea. Some of these peaks reach as beight of 10,000. feet. They are mostly of arapite, flanked near the base with crystalline schists. Districts of hilly land, less elevated, are made up of porphyritis rocks, limestone, and metamorphic strain, broken bere and there by cliffs and jagged dykes of intrasive rocks, or by metalliferous veine. Lurgo tracts were once covered by a sheet of volcanic rock, which now remains supping many summits left by erosion, and forming the picturesque sombrero or " hat bille." Towards the Gulf of California the plains are barren and arid deserts, where the traveller may ride hundreds of miles without seeing other plante than dry and thorny cacti. These wonders of the regetable world form a special fea-(Cereus giganteus), figured by the author, risen thirty or even nixty feet in a single shaft, nearly as broad at the top as at the base. "Its green surface is fluted liky Grecien columns, and armed from base to ammit with small clusters of long thorns, while a coronet of beautiful highly-coloured flowers encircles the base of the hemisphorical top." In the season these flowers give place to a awestish fruit, as large as a hen's egg, which forms an important article offood among the Papagoes. Of this fruit an agreeble syrup is made. The want of water forms a terrible drawback to life in these regione Scarcely less trying in the luck of wood, either for domestic porposes, or still more seriously, as regards the peculiar wealth of the country, for fuel. The difficulty experienced in smelting the ores must always detenot from the value of the boundless gold and silver deposits. Our author, soon after his arrival, found himself at Cahuabi' a village of the friendly Papagoes, on the skirt of the desort.
